Beginners guide to American Classic Car Insurance

A lot of car enthusiasts like to collect classic cars. Some may only have one much loved model whilst others may own more than one classic car. Over the years a lot of enthusiasts have begun to collect American classic cars as well as British models. Their choice of car may have been simple but will getting insurance be that easy? Do you need specialist American classic car insurance?

The fact is that you may not use your American classic in the same way you use a standard vehicle. Some owners will, of course, drive their classic on a daily basis. But, even they may find that their insurance needs might be different from regular car drivers.

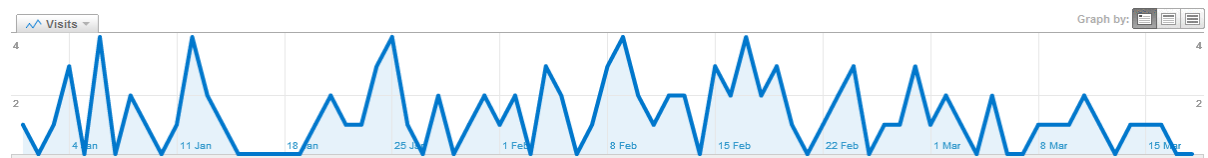

Unlike regular cars classic cars can actually appreciate in value rather than depreciate over time. So, you may, for example, need cover that gives you a different level of protection in this instance. And, cars in this specialist area probably weren't built for the UK market so you may need different features and benefits to cover that fact as well.

The advantages you may find with this kind of classic car insurance as opposed to standard insurance may vary according to your use of the car and its model. You can, of course, look at all the standard options such as third party, fire and theft and comprehensive cover. But, there may be other features worth looking at as well.

For example, a specialist American classic car insurance policy may offer you:

Boat Insurance Cover

Having the correct boat insurance cover is essential for peace of mind and security, whether you have a dingy, kayak, yacht or racing boat. If you take out incorrect cover, you may be faced with financial distress in the event of something going wrong.

There are many types of boat – and people use them for different purposes from racing to pure fun – so matching your cover to your specific boating needs is important. If you choose a specialist boat insurance cover provider, they typically provide you with all the information needed to ensure you make an informed choice when choosing your boat insurance cover.

Whether you own a narrow boat or a motor cruiser, a kayak or a jet ski, boat insurance cover can be imperative, as you may be faced with events outside of your control. These can prove to be expensive without a policy to rely on.

Imagine the worst-case scenario for a moment and that you lost your craft to fire or theft; or it was damaged or vandalised; or a third party claim made against you. Boat insurance cover may provide protection for all of these events and more.

A BEGINNERS GUIDE

Legal expenses insurance coverage is an insurance policy that covers the legal expenses of the insured party. The primary types of legal issues that this type of insurance can cover are those related to a person being treated unfairly, unjustly or discriminated against. With insurance to cover your legal expenses you are able to seek justice or compensation without having to worry about how you will pay for the legal costs, rather than just choosing to grin and bear it.

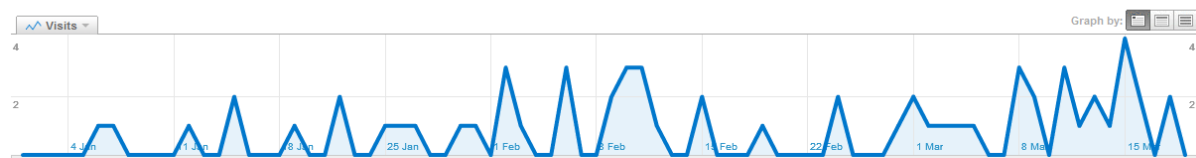

Legal expenses are often very expensive and therefore people at times choose to accept unfair treatment without taking any recourse simply because they have no way to pay for a solicitor. However legal expenses cover can pay quite a high payout depending on the type of coverage you sign up for. Insurance coverage like this can change your options considerably.

There are various situations in which people find legal expenses coverage appropriate: employment issues are always at the forefront of most people's minds, whether they have been dismissed unfairly, have a contract dispute or even related to other issues like personal injury claims. Below is a list of a few of the issues generally covered by insurance policies that cover legal expenses:

- ▶ Various employment disputes, for example wrongful termination
- ▶ Disputes over work agreements and contracts
- ▶ Injuries received due to the carelessness or negligence of another party

A BEGINNERS GUIDE

A lot of people have a specific interest in military vehicles. Like classic cars, enthusiasts may even save up their cash and buy an ex-military vehicle for their own use or to renovate for pleasure. But, getting insurance cover in this sector can be very different to insuring a standard car or truck. Many people do, in fact, find that specialist military vehicle insurance is a better option for them than a standard policy.

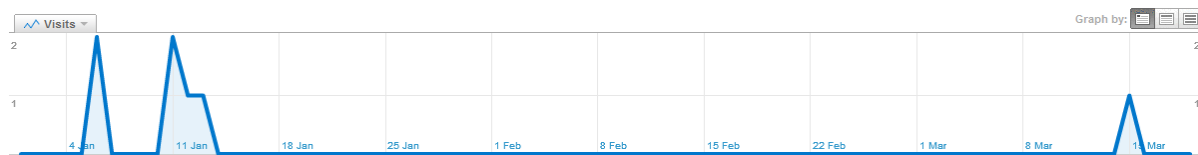

The problem that standard insurers often have is that they often don't have an understanding of military vehicles to start with. After all, most insurers will not be used to people calling them for quotes for a tank, a field ambulance or an ex-military jeep every day of the week! They won't necessarily have quotation values that they can use at the end of the day.

So, many people looking for this kind of insurance who do find a regular insurer to help them out may not be charged at the going rate. If an insurer doesn't have the experience of covering these types of vehicles then they are simply more likely to charge higher premiums to cover themselves. This doesn't have to be an issue, however, as a specialist military vehicle insurance policy may simply be an easier solution to take.

This kind of insurance is most often offered by specialist insurers. Many companies in this sector may offer insurance for standard car models but, and this is the key factor, they will also offer a range of specialist insurance services for people who need more than a standard policy. The benefit to you may simply be that you can insure your military vehicle for the right cover and benefits at the right cost — you'll often get many standard insurance benefits as well as the specialist cover you may need.
